Section B

Answer the following question.

4. The trustees of PU have made proposals to introduce new working patterns for lecturers:
- Compulsory training in IT use for teaching, including online teaching and creating libraries of online resources.
 - Contracts that require all lecturers to work at home three days a week. There would be a schedule of who is on site on each day.
 - Vacations reduced in length to enable sufficient face-to-face contact with all students. Lecturers would receive a compensatory increase in basic pay.
 - Introduction of performance-related pay (PRP).

PU is considering a joint venture with Country B's government. Country B is performing well economically and is planning to expand its university sector. The trustees of PU believe that the university has a sufficiently strong reputation that the government of Country B will be interested in PU opening a campus there.

Country B's government would provide the facilities and recruit local lecturers and other staff to work at the university. PU would be responsible for all the other costs that it incurs setting up the campus.

PU would:

- design degree courses, syllabuses and course materials
- train all staff
- monitor the progress of each course to ensure that academic standards are good enough to award degrees.

In addition, PU would undertake all market research needed for planning and monitoring new courses, including primary research into the market for university courses.

PU would receive an annual payment from the government of Country B and a fee for each student that successfully completes a degree course.

- (d) Recommend whether PU should open a campus in Country B. [10]
